By the end of this lesson, you will be able to:

1. Define self-awareness, self-esteem, and personal values
2. Identify personal strengths and set healthy boundaries
3. Explain the components of emotional intelligence
4. Apply assertiveness skills in everyday situations

Slide 2: Know Yourself

You cannot build a strong future on a foundation you don't understand. Self-awareness is where everything starts.

Concept	Definition	Why It Matters
Self-Awareness	Knowing your thoughts, feelings, values, strengths	Helps you make intentional choices
Self-Esteem	How you value yourself	Drives confidence and resilience
Values	Your personal principles and beliefs	Guide behaviour under pressure
Personal Strengths	What you do well naturally	Build on them for success

Slide 3: Self-Esteem & Identity

Your identity is more than your appearance or grades — it is the sum of your values, relationships, and choices.

KEY TERM: High Self-Esteem

Able to set boundaries, handle criticism, resist peer pressure, and recover from failure. Not dependent on others' opinions.

KEY TERM: Low Self-Esteem

Easily swayed by pressure, seeks constant approval, fears failure, avoids challenges. Often linked to depression and anxiety.

■■■ Social Media Warning

■ Comparing your real life to others' highlight reels damages self-esteem. Social media shows the best 1% — not real life.

Slide 4: Personal Boundaries

Boundaries are not walls — they are bridges that define safe, respectful connections.

Boundary Type	Example
Physical	'Don't touch me without asking first'

Boundary Type	Example
Emotional	'I need time to process before we talk'
Digital	'Don't share my photos without permission'
Social	'I won't go to parties where I feel unsafe'
Financial	'I only lend money I can afford to lose'

■ ■ Setting Boundaries

Slide 5: Emotional Intelligence

Your EQ (Emotional Quotient) may matter more than your IQ in life success, especially in relationships.

EI Component	What It Means
Self-Awareness	Knowing what you feel and why
Self-Regulation	Managing reactions — pause before reacting
Motivation	Drive to achieve your goals
Empathy	Understanding others' feelings
Social Skills	Managing relationships effectively

Wanjiku got a low mark in a test. Her first instinct was to snap at her friend who asked how she did. Instead, she paused, recognised she was angry at herself, and said calmly: 'I didn't do well, I need to study harder.' That self-regulation saved the friendship.

Slide 6: Module Video

Watch carefully, then continue to the scenarios.

Slide 7: Real Talk — What Would You Do?

Pick your choice and see the consequence.

Slide 8: Building Your Assertiveness

Assertiveness is a skill — it can be learnt and practised every day.
